Disabled Persons Railcard (DPRC) in circulation and issued

Publication date: 16 June 2016

About the data

The Disabled Persons Railcard (DPRC) enables disabled passengers to get a discount of a third off adult rail fares for travel on the National Rail network in Great Britain.

DPRCs are available for both one year and three years in length. Data sourced from ATOC.

This data is collected by ORR for Disabled People's Protection Policies (DPPP) compliance monitoring.

Definitions

DPRC in circulation: the number of disabled persons rail cards in circulation which are valid to use for a discount on rail fares. This includes both one year and three year railcards.

DPRC new (one year) / (three years)

Disabled persons railcards issued which either one year or three years in length.

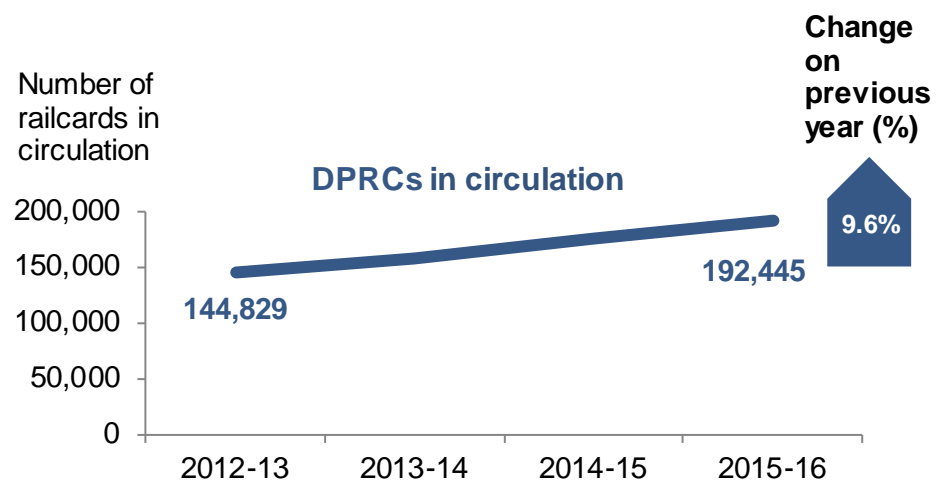

The data is published every quarter on ORR's data portal.
