Subject: Passenger Information Consultation

Dear Sir or Madam,

As the creator of the interactive travel time map application Mapnificent I'd like to encourage the Office of Rail Regulation to amend licenses in a way to allow for the following:

- Publishing station information and timetable data in a machine-readable format
- Making this data available free of charge
- Licensing this data under an Open Data License

Public Transport Information that is published under these conditions will allow developers to create applications which will benefit passengers as they can consume Public Transport information in their preferred way.

Kind Regards
Stefan Wehrmeyer
